

Session 5 Notes

- Uatie Constable and his guards
- Let guards go back to town, they are loyal to the constable
- We have the Constable lead us along Ditchway toward Jaunty Horn
- Gwomotom eats some nightworm spawn along the way
- Trees go from sandy birchwood w/ birdsong to thick old trees creaking from wind.
- Soil is orange as if blood has been spilled
- Lots of underbrush that would be difficult to traverse
- Gwomotom coaxes a hawk with nightworm spawn asks about any nearby people / settlements
 - It mostly sees big adult nightworms
 - Hawk's name is "I am speed"
 - goes back to nest to feed his young
 - He tells Gwomotom adult worms are north by big rocks and large holes
- Jaunty Horn ~8.5 miles from Tankshorn, half day travel
- Ditchway is cut into the earth with forest up on either side of walls of soil
- Lively Inn, two children siblings running around
- Hundreds of horseshoes on walls
- Proprietor named Jezebel - stout and muscular, late 30s, dressed akin to adventurers

- She has one old bottle of nippers stowed away that the grimalkin share
- Tomkin lights some pipeleaf
- Merchant in common area, eating alone
- Another table of travelers
- Gwomotom misses the mossling delicacy of Glubwob, slop made of lichen that induces cathartic vomiting
- We order some food
- Jezebel recognizes constable, he's uncomfortable and reminded of when he was grabbed by goblins during his last visit
- Jezebel bought her Inn with adventuring loot
- She wants to find a wyrm as her last hurrah
- Yellow bile wyrm south of prigwort. Chased off by a knight, neither seen again
- We hear commotion outside
- Jack gets up to investigate
- Adventurers on road from the east (Dreg) ^{Brehder is name}
 - 7 carrying an incapacitated 8th Female breggle, grey fur and grey clothes. Milky white eyes
- One breggle is a female with yellow crystal replacing one eye, her name is Bernild
- Spirit home is an herb not a place - Correction
- These breggles were colors of Lord Malbleat
 - green and yellow, crest has
- The wooden wolves
- Another breggle is a male named Crump

Present as trying to ease suffering

Henrick casts detect magic, grey breggle glows

- Crystal eye on Berrild glows
- one breggle has magic ring
- one breggle has magic armor
- one has magic purple boots

Gwomatom goes out hunting but doesn't find anything

- Tomkin tries to keep an eye on breggle with fancy armor

- Jack approaches merchant, named Fostis Mirk

- He has the smell of a fishmonger

- 6 generations of his family were fishmongers, he's from Dreg and travelling to Lankshorn for breggle festival

- Shantywood Isle in Dreg good spot for miscreants

- Zealot in Dreg named Hogbeard. Holy man can't be trusted. He believes taking a few people out could make Dreg a nice place. Forcefully makes sinners repent. He and his followers wear yellow smocks

- Dreg famed for bogwine sausages

- He's selling fish bullion

- Henrick asks constable about Father Doby

- He doesn't know about why he had breggles visiting at night

- Tomkin shifts to cat form, tries to sneak up building to window where breggle with armor is sleeping but slips and falls to the ground

- Next day, day one of parchment
- Constable points us where he thinks Shub's Nana is and heads back to Lankshorn
- Warm and Sunny day

Henrick forages:

5 nations of fairy veil - silvery lattice works smells of leeks and tastes like kiwi

Gwamatom hunts;

Finds 4 bears digging through underbrush 120 ft away

- we climb trees to prepare an ambush
- Gwamatom looses the first arrow, sinks into a bear and they flee, blood trail left behind
- we lose the trail, no food
- we move on, find lofty silver birches and lots of criss-crossing paths
- We find a glade with a circle of 2 ft high scarlet toad stools, in middle is a sandstone slab, 10 ft high. Crack down the middle
- Jack toss a stone into the toad stool circle, nothing happens
- Markings can't be read. Seems old, don't recognize the script
- Spores burst from mushrooms, we start coughing
- Hallucinations of religious nature, saints beckoning, pluritine iconography

- Jack runs to the stone
- Scrawlings seem arcane in nature
- Completely wrong but he takes them mean that this is a shrine to the rats and they are coming to take over the world
- Gets in a fight with Gwomatom over digging a hole to avoid the rats
- Gwomatom launches Jack into a mushroom
- A 6'6" human looking male with small people made of sticks
- Shaven head, brass nose ring, drune cloak
- Curved dagger at his side sheathed
- "This area is not for mortals or fairies. This the domain of the Drune alone. You are to leave at once and never return"
- wearing a bone bracelet with mushroom carvings
- Aetho Grym he calls himself, area is Golach Stone
- We back away
- It's now nighttime
- We set up camp, Henrick makes stew from fairyveil
- Tamkin tells a story about Noggle, Whipple tongue the Ynimalkin explorer. Henrick doesn't believe it but is entertained
- In the middle of the night while on watch, Tamkin spots a pure white shimmering hare which trots off in surprise
- He tries to shift into cat form to follow, but it doesn't work. He's being watched.

- "Stay out of this" says a man who disappears into the woods after the horse
- Tomkin follows, ends up 100 feet away from camp
- He can see the man and horse ahead
- Approaches the man who looks furious
- "I found the unicorn first" he says
- Tomkin now notices the long horn and 10 ft tail on unicorn. Hint of rainbow aura
- The man continues - he needs the unicorn to lift a curse on him. The unicorn approaches the man and places its horn on him.
- Tomkin uses fairy magic to understand the unicorn
- He hears it say with a feminine voice "You have been judged unworthy. Find another way to lift your curse".
- The man breaks down weeping
- Tomkin tries to engage the unicorn as it's leaving
- "You have made your judgement of this man. I ask that you make your judgement of me. I must know what kind of person I really am".
- This intrigues the unicorn
- "It seems you are going down a darker path than you intended. Think on what you truly want".
- Tomkin's longsword begins to glow, blessed by the unicorn
- The man is upset that the Unicorn seemingly judged Tomkin positively based on the magic sword

- He tries to bite Tomkin with newly revealed fangs but is fended off by the flat of his blade
- "You're not worth it" the man says
- "I will try to improve my worth by first forgiving you for that" says Tomkin
- "I want to be how I once was" the man says
- "We can only be what we are" says Tomkin.
- He offers the man a spot by a fire for the night
- The man says he was once called Alfred
- The rest of us wake in the morning to meet the man. Dirty, wild hair and beard, mid 40s
- Tomkin's sword no longer glowing
- Henrick uses core affliction to cure the man's lycanthropy
- The man briefly falls unconscious, wakes up with bluer eyes, younger, hairier
- Came from castle Grackewold where he was turned, Henrick thinks he was turned the Bishop
- We give him a choice to join us on our journey or go his own way
- He decides to join us, hoping for a path to redemption
- We decide to head Dreg to resupply and get Alfred ready for adventure

Henrick is level 3, Tomkin is level 3, Gwomaton is level 3, Jack is level 4